BRASS BEDS THAT ARE INSURED AGAINST TARNISHING

We Give a
Ten-Year
Guarantee
With Each Bed

Don't buy a Brass Bed
'Till you've seen it Tested

Come in and let us demonstrate the indestructibility of the Damard Lacquer Finish. We want you to touch a few drops of wood alcohol or ammonia on a bed finished with ordinary shellac lacquer and see how it immediately cuts through to the brass and permanently destroys the finish. Then we want you to pour the alcohol or ammonia, from the same bottle, on these beds, rub it vigorously with a cloth and convince yourself that our beds are proof against cleansers that must be used to remove spots and stains.

We want to PROVE to you that the "HOUSE OF QUALITY" can sell you the finest Brass Tube Bed made, insured for ten years against tarnishing, at less than other stores ask you for ordinary shellac-finished beds that WON'T stand cleaning. Come in and examine them. We'll furnish the alcohol or ammonia for you to test them. Try ours first, then touch a few drops from the same bottle on the other fellow's and see what happens.

Damard Lacquer is Proof Against all Acids, Ammonia, Wood Alcohol, Salt Solution and other Alkali Cleansers.

EVERY BED BUILT TO GIVE LIFE-LONG SERVICE

Look at the Big Savings. Then remember, that ALL our Brass Beds are guaranteed NEVER to tarnish or wear off. With each bed goes AN INSURANCE POLICY (renewable every 5 years), guaranteeing you a new bed free if your bed ever tarnishes. You know, as well as we, that many so-called "Brass" Beds are only plated brass and many real Brass Beds are only varnished with a Shellac Lacquer which will soon tarnish and come off when washed with ammonia. Insist upon rubbing ammonia on a Brass Bed before buying—this is the ONLY way to make SURE it is REAL Brass. We'll gladly make any test to prove our Brass Beds are non-tarnishable real Brass.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and restoring nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

CAMBRIA STEEL COMPANY.

Bookings Sufficient to Keep Operations Going Until Fall.
Business of the Cambria Steel Company is holding up and bookings are sufficient to allow the company to operate at the present percentage until fall. The company's plate mills are making a heavy tonnage, a large part of which is being used by the car shops of the company. Several sales have been made in the Chicago territory for which a premium of from $2 to $5 per ton was received.
The Cambria company will begin the erection of three new open-hearth furnaces at its Franklin plant on July 1, which will make a total of twenty furnaces of this class at that plant. Work is expected to be completed by the first of next year. President Price has issued a statement to the effect that increased business has demanded the new furnaces.

The class roll is as follows: Loraine E. Amend, A. Theresa Upmign, Alexander J. Byrne, Helen G. Beckman, Florence M. Turner, Edward E. George, Mary K. O'Brien, Joseph Kennedy, Anna M. Leonard, Joseph Miller, Nellie M. Shaven and J. Michael Stern.

ON OHIO TRIP.
Manager E. J. Buttermore of the Great opera house is starting in his automobile for Youngstown and Cleveland. He was accompanied by his wife and sons, Paul and Thomas, and Mrs. J. V. Groff and daughter, Evelyn. The party will visit Mr. Buttermore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip M. Cramer, formerly of this place and now of Youngstown. During Mr. Buttermore's absence the opera house will be managed by W. H. Cramer. Francis O'Hara will have charge of the pictures and Miss Steiner will continue to be the ticket seller.

FROM PITTSBURGH.
Mrs. H. L. Stewart and little daughter, Judith of Pittsburgh are here visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Randall of West Pitt borough. Mr. Stewart was formerly chemist for the Lark company at this place and for the last several years has been chief chemist for the Pittsburgh Civil Company.

SURE RAIN.
There was some rain last night, and a few light showers today, with a good deal of suffering from the heat among the mill workers. It was about the hottest day this year, so they report. The rains continue to make the crops look bright and green and have done a great deal of good for them.

WAS WELL ATTENDED.
The thirty-seventh concert by the Grand Army band was well attended at Loucks park last evening, although the skies held threats of rain all evening. The program was an excellent one and pleased everyone.

MOVING DOWN TOWN.
W. J. Dorey & Brother are having the room in the L. E. Miller block on Broadway, formerly occupied by Taylor Brothers' grocery store, remodeled and will remove their clothing store from Pittsburgh street to that place. An entire new front is being put in and it will be quite an improvement to the locality.

COMPLETING WORK.
Steiner Brothers, the joiners, are completing the improvements in the room they have been making in their store room. A pressed steel ceiling has been put up and the walls are being papered with ornamental paper. A new front has been put in the building and new cases have been installed. The room was one of those which was gutted by the fire last fall.

Mt. Pleasant.

MT. PLEASANT, June 18.—Council held a special meeting in the Municipal building last evening when Mr. Laird appeared in behalf of the people who sold the curbstones to Maynard & Company for recent paving to look after a lien for their money.

D. H. Hershberger appeared in behalf of the P. & O. railroad and after the matter was talked over, a motion was adopted that the P. & O. would have the privilege of extending their run out to 11 feet and paying it with brick. The Center avenue sewer was discussed and a motion was adopted to draw up an ordinance to have a sewer placed from Sharp street to Silver street along Smithfield street. The Street Commissioner was ordered to repair sewer on South Hitchman street that will require about 1 or 2 joints of sewer pipe. The sewer committee was instructed to investigate the disposition of surface water on North Hitchman street and proceed to buy material and get such work done as will remedy this nuisance.

A motion was adopted to have the ordinance for the surveying of Stand Pipe alley and South Hitchman street. The ordinance was read and accepted. The printed form of order found in the council chamber was adopted.

Rule 17 was suspended, the ordinance to be read three times and come up for final passage. This was done and the ordinance adopted as read and ordered to be published according to law. A motion was lost that an ordinance be prepared for the paving of Main street and Washington street from the East End to the West End with the streets intersecting. Motion was lost that Street Commissioner look after Dr. M. W. Hornor's sidewalk and also the motion that William Hornor's sidewalk and retaining wall be looked after.

AUTOMOBILE TRUCK IS ON THE WAY HERE

Expected to Arrive This Week—Planning for its Reception are the Connellmen.

Chairman Stoner of the Public Safety Committee has received word from the Pop-Hatford Automobile Company that the new auto truck recently ordered by the borough will be here Wednesday or Thursday. The truck was shipped on Saturday.

The truck is a delivery affair equipped with ladders, chemical and hose. A representative of the Connellsville Garage, through which the car was ordered, will teach these four men from the fire department how to run the truck. At a meeting of Council, possibly at the next night, Chairman Stoner will recommend to the body a man to run the truck. Other appointments will be made to substitute. The selection will be made by Council.

Anniversary of Waterloo.
LONDON, June 18.—Today was the anniversary of the battle of Waterloo, and a representative of the Duke of Wellington travelled to Windsor Castle to present a small banner, in accordance with the terms on which the Duke holds the estate voted by parliament. NERVOUS DESPONDENT WOMEN

Find Relief in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—Their Own Statements So Testify.

Platen, Pa.—"When I wrote to you first I was troubled with female weakness and backache, and was so nervous that I would cry at the least noise, it would startle me so. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's remedy, and I don't have any more crying spells. I sleep sound and my nervousness is better. I will recommend your medicines to all suffering women."

—Mrs. MARY HALSTEAD, Platen, Pa., Box 98.

Here is the report of another genuine case, which still further shows that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be relied upon.

Watcott, N. Dakota.—"I had inflammation which caused pain in my side, and my back ached all the time. I was so blue that I felt like crying if any one even spoke to me. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I began to gain right away. I continued its use and now I am a well woman."

—Mrs. AMELIA DAHL, Watcott, N. Dakota.

EYE STRAIN AS A FACTOR IN THE GENERAL HEALTH

Do you know that nerve strain, caused by weak, defective eyes, result in a general cramp of the entire system, preventing the different parts of the human body to properly functionate, in turn bringing on headache, indigestion, constipation and numerous other disorders, all of which may be thrown off with proper lenses.

REMOVE THE CAUSE and you have no effect. Advice and instructions as to diet, etc. Examination free. Bring your broken lenses for duplicates.

Clergyman's Son Cured of Tuberculosis

Consumption is a baffling disease and the sufferer is filled with hope of improvement. Call it by its own dread name—and then take Eukim's Alternative, because it is effective in Tuberculosis. No one need doubt about it—there is plenty of evidence from lives witnessed. Investigate the following:

Augusta, N. Y.
"Gentlemen: Prior to Feb. 1908, I was located in Rochester, N. Y., suffering with tuberculosis, which developed into Tuberculosis. My physician gave me one month to live. I was having terrible night sweats and morning chills and losing weight rapidly, having come from 155 to 135 lbs. I coughed and raised continually and became so weak that walking a few feet exhausted me. On my return home, my regular physician gave me little encouragement. My father, who is a clergyman, heard of Eukim's Alternative and induced me to take it. The night sweats and chills disappeared, my cough became easier and gradually of diminished and in a few days I developed an appetite, the first in months. I am now in perfect health, back to 155 lbs. I am certain that I owe my life to Eukim's Alternative."

R. H. COWLES.
"Gentlemen: I cannot find words to express my appreciation of what your medicine has done for my son. It changed his life in two weeks after he began taking it, and without any doubt in my mind, it saved his life. I wish to add my endorsement to avoid the loss of this medicine."

REV. J. J. POWLES.
"Pastor Presbyterian Church, Eukim's Alternative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Trouble, and in expelling the mucus from the lungs, quins, or habit forming drugs. DOUGLAS COMMENCEMENT TO BE HELD WEDNESDAY

The School Will Also Hold Picnic at Shady Grove on Thursday—High School is Sealed.

Practically all arrangements have been made for the first annual commencement of the Douglas Business College to be held tomorrow afternoon in the college rooms. The affair will be the first of its kind ever attempted in the local school but will pave the way for more extensive commencement exercises in the future. But two events are planned, the graduation exercises and the school outing at Shady Grove.

Efforts are being made to secure E. C. Higgins as the commencement speaker. Warren L. Douglas will speak and present the diploma. The exercises will begin at 1 o'clock and will be of brief duration. The graduates are:

Combined course—Luz Bryson and Kathryn Olive Eagle; Stenography—L. Ruth Nesbitt, Joseph Cuneo, Leon Kelle, Myrtle Harshburt and Eleanor Smith. Bookkeeping—John Parkhill, Thomas A. Courtney, John Thant, Leon M. Kinsburck, Charles Reynolds, C. V. Snyder and John D. Kovach.

The school picnic will be held at Shady Grove Thursday afternoon. Many of the graduates are already working and others will step into positions as soon as they graduate. Some of the graduates will return next year for the combined course.

RECORD PRODUCTION BY UNITED STATES STEEL CO.

Ingots Being Turned Out at Rate of 17,500,000 Tons a Year and Finished Steel Over 13,000,000.

For the last several weeks the United States Steel Corporation has been producing at the rate of 17,500,000 tons of ingots a year and shipping to customers more than 13,000,000 tons of finished steel. On this record breaking production its earnings have been at the rate of $100,000,000 a year. If the corporation was receiving normal prices net earnings would be running at a rate between $150,000,000 and $175,000,000 a year. Steel prices have been trending downward since the Steel Corporation was organized, with the tendency of wages and all products entering into the manufacture of steel upward. Politics are blamed for the present low prices for steel products. Manufacturers, as a result of the antagonism toward the "community of interests" policy have refrained from taking any action that could be construed as a violation of the Sherman anti-trust act. When it was found that the Gary dinners were being construed as a subterfuge for regulating steel prices, these gatherings were abandoned.

For the last 12 months E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, has made no extraordinary efforts to strengthen the position of the steel industry. He has allowed it to take its own course with the result that in most cases steel companies have not earned regular dividends. In one or two instances earnings have not covered fixed charges. In spite of an increase in production to the end of last year, prices have not responded to any extent, and should there be a decline in output from the present level the weaker companies would be hard hit, as without some sort of regulation prices could not be held.

Production of United States Steel Corporation in 1911, amounted to 12,753,370 tons, or nearly 5,000,000 tons below the present annual rate. The record year in steel ingot production for U. S. Steel was 14,179,369 tons reached in 1910.

Assuming that June business will be as in former years, the same as that of May, total gross earnings for the fiscal year will not be far from $22,000,000, an increase of more than $2,000,000 over the figure for 1911 and a new high record for the company.

Net earnings, for a variety of reasons, will not make a new high record this year, although decidedly better than last year. In addition to the extraordinary winter, the company has made exceptional efforts to put the road in shape to handle its business expeditiously and economically. B. & O. put 12,000 new cars in service last year and will have 5,000 more in use before the end of 1912.

By the third morning she was a raw, even red, the fourth she had faded to a brilliant pink under the soothing influence of a cream recommended. That day came a letter from Elinora saying that she could not come.

"Mother!" she cried. "You my mother! I don't believe it!"

Home until after school Monday night. That suited Mrs. Comstock, and she at once answered the letter saying so. The next day Mrs. Comstock was a pale pink and the following a delicate porcelain white. That day she went to a hairdresser and had the great rope of snowy hair which covered her scalp washed and dressed.

Then she went home rested and worked by turns until Monday. When school closed on that evening and Elinora, so tired she almost trembled, came down the long walk after a luncheon of teachers meeting a messenger boy stopped her.

"There's a lady wants to see you most important. I am to take you to the place," he said.

Elinora groaned. She could not imagine who wanted her, but there was nothing to do but go and find out. "This is the place," said the boy, and went his way, whistling. Elinora was three blocks from the high school building on the same street. She was before a quaint old house, fresh with paint and covered with vines.

Inside she could see bare polished floors, walls freshly papered in low toned harmonious colors, straw rugs and madras curtains. It seemed to be a cheerful, homelike place to which she had come, and a second later down an open stairway came a tall, dark eyed woman with cheeks faintly pink and a crown of fluffy snow white hair.

Elinora stepped inside the door. "Mother!" she cried. "You my mother! I don't believe it! You are perfectly beautiful, and this house is a little paradise, but how will we ever pay for it? We can't afford it!"

"Humph! Have you forgotten I telegraphed you I'd found some money didn't I know about? All I've done is paid for and plenty more to settle for all I propose to do."

Mrs. Comstock glanced around with supreme satisfaction. "I may get homesick as a pup before spring," she said, "but if I do I can go back. If I don't I'll sell some timber and put a few old wells where they don't show much. I can have land enough cleared for a few fields and put a tenant on our farm, and we will buy this and settle here. It's for sale."

Mrs. Comstock invited Elinora's friends to visit her and proved herself a bright and interesting hostess. She digested a subject before she spoke, and when she advanced a view her point was sure to be original and tersely expressed. Before three months people wanted to hear what she had to say. Elinora never mentioned Philip Ammon, neither did Mrs. Comstock. Early in December came a note and a big box from him. It contained several books on nature subjects which would be a great help in school work and a number of conveniences Elinora could not afford. Soon after Elinora wrote Ammon.

Dear Friend—I am writing to thank you for the books and the box of conveniences sent me for my work. I can use everything with fine results. I hope I am giving good satisfaction in my position. You will be interested to learn that when the summer's work was finished and pinned I again had my complete collection save a yellow Emperor. I have tried everywhere I know. So has the Bird Woman. We cannot find a pair for sale. Fate is against me at least this season. I shall have to wait until next year and try again.

Thank you very much for helping me with my collection and for the books and things. Sincerely yours, Elinora Comstock.

Ammon was disappointed over that note and instead of keeping it he tore it into bits and dropped them into the wastebasket.

Throughout the winter Elinora and her mother enjoyed the city thoroughly and the change of life it afforded, but signs of spring did wonderful things to the hearts of the country-bred women. They decided to keep the city house during the summer, but to go back to the farm to live just as soon as school closed.

CHAPTER XXII.

Wherein Philip Ammon is Scorned by Edith Carr, and Hart Henderson Appears on the Scene.

EDITH CARR stood in a vine-inclosed side veranda of the Lake Shore clubhouse waiting, while Philip Ammon gave some important orders. In a few days she would sail for Paris to select a wonderful trousseau she had planned for her marriage in October. Tonight Philip was giving a club dance in her honor. As she stood waiting she smiled softly. She was robed in a French creation suggested and designed by Philip. He had said to her, "I know a competent judge who says the distinctive feature of Paris is her exquisite light night moths. I want you to be the very essence of June that night, as you will be the embodiment of love. Be a moth. The most beautiful of them is either the pale green Luna or the yellow Imperialis. Be my moon lady or my gold Empress!"

Now she stood, tall, lithe, of grace-born her dark waving hair high plucked and crowned by gold bands studded with amethysts and at one side an emerald lavender orchid rimmed with diamonds, which flashed and sparkled. The soft yellow robe of lightest weight velvet fitted her form perfectly, while from each shoulder fell a great velvet wing lined with lavender and flecked with embroidery of that color in imitation of the moth. Philip had said that her gloves, fan and slippers must be lavender because the feet of the moth were that color. These accessories had been made to order and embroidered with gold. In her heart she thought of herself as "Imperial Empress," as the Yellow Empress. But in all the fragmentary thought crossing her brain the one that never came was that of Philip Ammon as the emperor, Philip the king of her heart, and at last her equal in all things.

"Ah, my luck!" cried a voice behind her. Edith Carr turned and smiled exultantly.

"I thought you were on the ocean," she said.

"I only reached the dock," replied the man, "when I had a letter that recalled me by the first limited. Edith, you are the most superb woman in every respect that I have ever seen. One glimpse is worth the whole journey."

He half closed his eyes and smilingly stared straight at her. He was taller than she, a lean man, with close cropped light hair, steel gray eyes, a square chin and "man of the world" written all over him.

Edith Carr flushed. "I thought you realized when you went away that you were to stop that Hart Henderson?" she cried.

"I did, but this letter of which I tell you called me back to start it all over again. One of your most intimate friends wrote it. It contained the hazard that possibly I had given up too soon. It said that in a fit of petulance you had broken your engagement with Ammon twice this winter, and he had come back because he knew you did not really mean it. I have come back to haunt you until the ceremony is over. Then I go, not before. I was insane!"

The girl laughed merrily. "Not half so insane as you are now, Hart!" she cried gayly. "You know that Philip Ammon has been devoted to me all my life. Well, now I'll tell you something else, because this looks serious for you. I love him with all my heart. Not while he lives shall he know it, and I will laugh at him if you tell him, but the fact remains. I intend to marry him, but no doubt I shall tease him constantly. It's good for a man to be uncertain. If you could see Ammon's face at the quarterly return of his ring you would understand the fun of it. My little fits of temper don't count with Phil. He's been raised on them."

"Just the same I'll wait and see it an accomplished fact," said Henderson. "And, Edith, because I love you with the sort of love it is worth a woman's while to inspire I want your happiness before my own. Go careful from now on. Don't strain that patched engagement of yours any further. I've known Philip all my life. He loves you, yes! He is long suffering for you, yes! But men know he has a limit. When the limit is reached he will stand fast, and all the powers can't move him. You don't seem to think it, but you can go too far."

"Is that all?" laughed Edith Carr sarcastically. "No, there is one thing more," said Henderson. "Here or hereafter, now and so long as I breathe, I am your slave. If you need me it is not necessary to speak, only give me the faintest sign. All your life I will be somewhere near you waiting for it."

At that instant Philip Ammon entered. He was in full evening dress and exceptionally handsome. "Everything is ready," he said. "They are waiting for us to lead the march. It is formed."

Edith Carr smiled entrancingly. "Do you think I am ready?"

Philip looked what he thought and offered his arm. Edith Carr nodded carefully to Henderson and moved away.

The last half of the program was well under way. Never had girl been more complimented and petted in the same length of time than Edith Carr. A partner's dance was called and the floor was filled with couples waiting for the music. Ammon stood whispering delightful things to Edith facing him. From out of the night in at the wide front entrance to the pavilion there swept in slow, wafting flight a great yellow moth and fluttered toward the center cloths, of glaring electric lights.

"Why, isn't that?" she began excitedly.

"It's a yellow Emperor! 'This is fate!' cried Ammon. 'The last one Elinora needs for her collection. I must have it! Excuse me!'"

He ran toward the light. "Etain! Handkerchiefs! I want! Anything!" he panted. "They one hold up some thing and stop that!"

He wants it for Edith! ran in a murmur around the hall. The girl's face flushed, while she bit her lip in vexation. Instantly every one began holding up something to keep the moth from flying back into the night. One fan held straight before it served, and the moth gently settled on it.

"Hold steady!" cried Ammon. "Don't move for your life!" He rushed toward the moth, made a quick sweep and held it up between his fingers. "All right!" he called. "Thanks, everybody! Excuse me a minute!"

He ran to the office. "An ounce of gasoline, quick!" he ordered. "A cigar box, a cork and the glue bottle!"

He poured some glue into the bottom of the box, set the cork in it firmly, dashed the gasoline over the moth, repeatedly, pinned it to the cork, poured the remainder of the liquid over it, closed the box and fastened it. Then he laid a bill on the counter.

"Pack that box with cork around it in one twice its size, tie securely and express to this address at once."

"Keep the change," called Ammon as he ran back to the pavilion.

Edith Carr stood where he left her, thinking rapidly. She heard the murmur that went up when Philip started to capture the exquisite golden creature she was impersonating. She saw the flash of surprise that went over unrestrained faces when he ran from the room without even showing it to her.

He had spoken of a country girl he had met who played the violin wonderfully, and at times he had showed a disposition to kiss her as a standard of womanhood. Alas Carr had ignored what he said and talked of something else. It was that girl who was collecting moths! No doubt she was the competent judge who was responsible for the yellow Emperor Philip had deigned. Had Edith Carr been in her room she would have torn off the dress at the thought.

Being in a circle of her best friends, which to her meant her keenest rivals and hardest critics, she grew rigid with anger. Her breath hurt her pulsing chest. No one thought to speak to the musicians, and seeing the door filled they began the waltz.

Edith Carr grew very white as she stood alone. The idealized only daughter of the Carr family hoped that she would drop dead from mortification, but nothing happened. She was too perverse to step aside laughingly and say that she was waiting for Philip. Then came Tom Levering dancing with Polly Ammon. Being in the circles with the Ammon family, Tom scented trouble from afar so he whispered to Polly, "Edith is standing in the middle of the floor, and she's awful mad about something."

They hurried to Edith. "Come, dear," said Polly. "We are going to wait with you until Phil gets back. Let's go for a drink. I am so thirsty!"

"My betrothed left me here," Edith said. "Here I shall remain until he returns for me, and then—he will be my betrothed no longer." Polly grasped Edith's arm. "Oh, Edith!" she implored. "Don't make a scene here, and tonight. He can explain! It's only a breath since I saw him go out. I thought he had returned."

He has been gone just long enough to show every one of his guests that he will leave me standing alone, like a neglected fool, for any passing whim of his. Explain! His explanation would sound well! Do you know for whom he caught that moth? It is lost sent to a girl he flirted with all last summer."

Speech unlocked the fountain. She stepped off her gloves to free her hands. At that instant the dancers perturbed to admit Philip, instinctively they stopped as they approached, and with wondering faces gazed in Edith and Philip Polly and Tom.

"Mighty good of you to wait!" cried Ammon, his face beaming with delight over his success in capturing the yellow Emperor. "I thought when I heard the music you were going on."

"How did you think I was going on?" demanded Edith Carr in rigid tones.

"I thought you would step aside and wait a few seconds for me or dance with Henderson. It was most important to have that moth. It just completes a valuable collection for a person who needs the money. Come!"

He held out his arms. "I step aside for no one!" stormed Edith Carr. "I await no other girl's pleasure! You may complete the collection with that!"

She drew her engagement ring from her finger and reached to place it in one of Philip's outstretched hands. Ammon saw and drew back. Instantly Edith dropped the ring. As it fell, almost instinctively Philip caught it in his air.

"Edith, for the love of mercy, wait until I can explain!" he begged. "Put on your ring and let me tell you how it is."

"Never! Your conduct is infamous!" "Come to think of it," said Ammon deliberately, "it is infamous to cut a girl who has dined all her life out of a few measures of a wait. As for asking forgiveness for so black a sin as picking up a moth and starting it to a friend who lives by collecting them I don't see how I could. I have not been gone three minutes by the clock, Edith. Put on your ring and finish the dance like a dear girl!"

He thrust the glittering ruby into her fingers, and again held out his arms. She dropped the ring, and it rolled some distance from them. Henderson followed its shining course and caught it before it was lost.

"You really mean it?" demanded Ammon in a voice as cold as hers ever had been.

"You know I mean it!" cried Edith Carr. "I accept your decision in the presence of these witnesses," said Philip Ammon.

Where is my father? he asked of those around them. The elder Ammon, with a distressed face, hurried to him. "Father take my place," said Philip. "Excuse me to my guests. Ask all my friends to forgive me. I am going out for a time."

He turned and walked from the pavilion. As he went Hart Henderson rushed to Edith Carr and forced the ring into her fingers. Edith, quick! "Come quick!" he implored. "There's just time to catch him. If you let him go that way he never will return to this world. Remember what I told you."

"Great prophet are you, Hart?" she sneered. "Who wants him to return? If that ring is thrust upon me

Henderson put the ring into his pocket and began the dance. He could feel the muscular spasms of the girl in his arms. Her face was cold and hard, but her breath burned with the scorch of fever. She finished the dance and all others, taking Philip's numbers with Henderson, who had arrived too late to arrange a program. She left with the others, merely inclining her head as she passed Ammon's father taking his place, and entered the big touring car for which Henderson had telephoned.

She sank limply into a seat and moaned softly.

"Shall I drive awhile in the night air?" asked Henderson.

She nodded. Henderson instructed the chauffeur.

She raised her head in a few seconds. "Hart, I'm going to pieces," she said. "Won't you put your arm around me a little while?"

Henderson gathered her into his arms and her head fell on his shoulder. "Closer," she cried.

Dawn was streaking the east when he spoke to her. "Edith, it is growing light."

"Take me home," she said.

Henderson helped her up the steps and rang the bell.

"Miss Carr is ill," he said to the footman. "Rouse her maid instantly and have her prepare something hot as quickly as possible."

"Edith," he cried, "just a word. I have been thinking. It isn't too late yet. Take your ring and put it on. I will go find Phil at once and tell him you have, that you are expecting him, and he will come."

"Think what he said!" she cried. "He accepted my decision as final in the presence of witnesses! As if it were court. He can return it to me if I ever wear it again!"

You think that now, but in a few days you will find that you feel very differently. Living a life of heartache is no joke and no job for a woman. Put on your ring and send me to tell him to come. I know Phil, and I know you went too far. Put on that ring and send him word you are sorry before it is too late.

"I will not! He shall come to me!" "Then God help you!" said Henderson. "For you are plunging into misery whose depth you do not dream." She swayed where she stood. Her maid opened the door and caught her. Henderson went down the hall and out to his car.

SALEM QUAKERS THE FIRST GAME OF THE SERIES

FAYETTE FIELD BECOMES JOKE

About Worst Ever Anyway and With Carnival Trimmings the Fielders
Have Fine Time—Horne Boys Fight
Hard Uphill Battle but Lose Out.

In a baseball game that bordered on the ridiculous in the opening innings and gathered interest as the contest grew old, Salem took the first contest of the week yesterday from the Quakers, 5 to 4. After the first two innings the game was well played. Despite the bad ground, the players made nice stops and throws.

Fayette Field resembled the park on circus day. The Great Empire Carnival Company had appropriated much of the ground in the outfield and several long drives ordinarily "outs" went for two base errors. Carnival tents were strung along the first base line, by the grandstand and along the third base line. They also took up much ground in the outfield. Home plate was moved toward the grandstand about 15 feet and the rough ground back of the plate was taken in the diamond. Jack Richards' errors were of the disputed order. Jack had a particularly bad place at short field. Some of his stops and throws were of the sensational order.

The opening innings were interspersed with music by the Royal Italian band of the carnival company. The players trooped to their positions to the strains of music. Inspired by the rendition of "Everybody's Doing It," the Quaker players went to work early and amassed a total of two runs in the opening inning thanks to Jack Richards' two base bingle and Miller's hit over second base. Salem did not lag far behind and with the band playing "Tiddle Up" the victors batted out four runs on two hits. Ritter could not withstand the temptation of keeping his window in time with the music and suffered in consequence. Frank Horne came to his relief and with the band among the missing, thought to be due to Munger Wilson's wise judgment, he held the Quakers safe in all but the ninth inning when they made the winning run. Horne was in excellent form and held the league leaders to three hits, two of which were doubles and came in the final inning, netting the winning run.

Connellsville started off in a hurry. After Salem had been retired and Horne had beat out one fly out, doubling to left to the carnival tents. (owing to ground rules Hart was detained on third base although he had already made the home plate before the hit was fielded. Miller was the heavy boy with the stick and sent the two runners across.

Salem came right back in the next inning. Barry was hit on the elbow. Smith attempted to sacrifice and Ritter threw to the catcher instead of Miller and the runner got to third and second respectively. Flood, a pitcher playing in right field, came through with a screaming double and the runners scored. Carroll walked. Bobby Foster attempted to catch Flood off second and the ball bounded out of Richards' glove to the outfield. Davis singled cleanly and two more runs killed.

Mark singled in the sixth and Hart walked. Richards laid one down and Miller again did things with the war club. His single sent Mark and Hart across the rubber with the two runners. It looked like an extra inning affair but the visitors started things when Carroll doubled with one down. Davis hit out and with two down Edwards fled a two base bingle to left scoring Carroll. Connellsville did nothing in their half. The score:

Notes.

Umpire Gochler was awake all night. He stayed on Sunday at his home in Akron over Sunday. Gochler was among those that remained but he agreed to stay in the league until the meeting at Alliance this afternoon.

Carroll was hit in the shoulder close to the neck in the fifth inning. It was thought for a minute that the at-bat backstop was out but he resumed playing. Even after that the Cokers did not take any chances on the paths. Carroll is the player said to be wanted by Cincinnati. He handles himself well back of the plate and should make good in a higher league. It was his double that started the Salem rally in the ninth.

The goddess of luck smiled on the Salem at times. Their double play in the fifth allowed a Coker rally. The visitors had one infield double play and the Cokers one. Allen doubled a man from the outfield once.

Lead played the game. Manager Mark yanked him out in the ninth to let Ryan bat for him. Ryan struck out. So did Riley, who acted as a pinch hitter for Ritter. Seemingly a mistake of judgment. No local people have seen Riley but it seems that one of Ritter's long triples would have come in decidedly handy.

Horne pitched on Saturday and one back with the goods yesterday. Ritter had an on day, a thing that all happen to any pitcher. The big twirler was a bit stilted and wild when he was on the mound. His own throw in the second helped the Salem scoring.

Joe Cavanaugh, the basketball player, saw the game from the sidelines. He is contemplating a trip to Connellsville. It is said and may come this week.

Richards and Hart contributed several nice hits of play in spite of the rough field. Without a doubt, Fayette Field is the poorest excuse for a baseball diamond in the country. Even the Flick leaguers have better playing fields than do the professionals. A Flicker cannot handle himself with any manner of assurance because he does not know when a ball is going to bounce up and hit him in the face. Larry was hit by a hard ball in the shoulder in yesterday's game.

"Doc" Wilson, the old Charlesburg and Calontown outfielder, has been released by Alliance-Spring. In his prime Wilson was one of the best players in the Pawa league. His old teammate C. Dawson is burning up things in the Central this year.

Umpire Shuman did not accompany the club. The team was in charge of Secretary-Treasurer Bradley. Bradley played the game in middle field.

and acted all the world like Tommy Leach. He produced one hit. Bradley is a player of the old school. Wagner also did not come on the trip Barry coming in from middle field to cover second. Wagner is suffering from a sprained wrist. Flood is playing in right in the absence of a regular player.

The Cokers stacked up against the heat in the Salem stable yesterday in young Davis. The pitcher has all the earmarks of a corner. He has good curves and a change of pace. It would have been a pitcher's battle if Horne had started the game.

The sky clouded up in the sixth when the Cokers made two runs and tied the score. Some of the more cautious fans were then praying for rain. They would have been satisfied with a tie score.

The players were thrust in close proximity to the grandstand.

Richards appeared to have just cause for a kick in the sixth inning when he sacrificed with two on. Richardson felled the ball and in sending to the bag Davis ran into the Coker. Gochler called him out. Richards called attention to the ruling which entitles the player to the bag in case of interference. Gochler had made the decision and decided that he must abide by it.
